A Decade of Dedication: Jefferson College Arnold 10th Anniversary Open House Celebration Nov. 9

Prospective students and community members are invited to attend an open house celebration and registration event highlighting Jefferson College Arnold's 10th Anniversary on Thursday, November 9, at the Arnold location (1687 Missouri State Road) behind the Arnold Library and Recreation Complex.

The "Decade of Dedication" event will last from 4-7 p.m. and attendees may stop by at any time. Following some brief remarks, a group photo will be taken around 4:15 p.m. in the lobby. There will also be giveaways and light refreshments. Reservations are not required.

New and prospective students can register for wintertime or spring 2018 classes and have a chance to win a bookstore book scholarship valued at up to $500. Over $2,000 worth of gift cards will be given out to new students during the special event.

In addition to receiving general information about Jefferson College programs, attendees can visit with faculty and staff from a variety of programs and student support departments.

"Over the past 10 years, Jefferson College Arnold has provided a first class education to over 17,125 students who have taken at least one class at that site," said College President Dr. Raymond Cumiskey. "This celebration is the College's way of giving a heartfelt 'thank you' to our community, students, and employees for their support throughout the past decade."

The celebration will provide the opportunity for new and prospective students to learn about the College's numerous academic programs and student support services, submit a free admission application, complete the FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid), learn about A+ scholarship updates, and register for classes with an advisor.

You are cordially invited to attend

This event is open to all members of the community, including prospective and current students, family members and friends.

Those who wish to enroll are required to bring a photo ID and show placement test scores (within the last two years) prior to the registration process. After registering, students will be able to pay fees and obtain a parking sticker in a convenient “one stop” setting.

Construction of the $8 million, 40,000 square foot facility in 2007 was directly linked to recommendations from elected, civic, and educational leaders that reviewed higher education needs in northern Jefferson County. Among the building’s many features are electronic “SMART” classrooms, fully equipped science classrooms/labs, computer classrooms, an Academic Support Center, Learning Center/Assessment Center, a lecture hall/community meeting room, Enrollment Services, bookstore, student lounge, and an administrative office for Missouri Baptist University.

“This celebration is the College’s way of giving a heartfelt ‘thank you’ to our community, students, and employees for their support throughout the past decade.”

– DR. RAYMOND CUMMISKEY –
JEFFERSON COLLEGE PRESIDENT

In 2011, a $1.2 million 6,000 square foot construction/remodeling project added three general purpose classrooms equipped with SMART technology, a computer classroom, a science lab, and additional faculty/administrative offices.

Jefferson College tuition costs are $105 per credit hour for in-district residents plus a $5 per credit hour technology fee. Some courses may have additional lab fees and some programs such as Practical Nursing and the Law Enforcement Academy have separate fee structures.

Quality Education - Paramedic Program Receives National Accreditation Through 2022

The Jefferson College Paramedic program has received five-year accreditation by the Commission on Accreditation of Allied Health Education programs, upon the recommendation of the Committee on Accreditation of Educational Programs for the Emergency Medical Services Professions (CoAEMSP) through 2022.

The program underwent a rigorous evaluation using nationally accepted standards of excellence in instruction, facilities, and equipment.

Led by Earl Neal, Jim Bringer and Diane Scanga, the Jefferson College Paramedic program is a popular public service training option, allowing students to pursue an Associate of Applied Science degree or a Career and Technical certificate. Graduates are employed at many EMT-Paramedic agencies and providers throughout the region.

The Commission on Accreditation of Allied Health Education Programs (CAAHEP) accredits educational programs that prepare health professionals in a variety of disciplinary areas. Accreditation is one step in a process that is meant to protect the public and ensure a supply of qualified health care professionals. Programs are accredited when it is determined that they meet the educational standards and guidelines established by the profession.

CAAHEP is the largest programmatic accreditor of the health sciences professions. In collaboration with its Committees on Accreditation, CAAHEP reviews and accredits over 2,100 individual education programs in 30 health science occupations.

The Paramedic level is the highest licensure level that an EMS provider can obtain. Jefferson College’s Paramedic program teaches students to become proficient in providing life-saving skills and procedures, along with defensive driving operations. Paramedic training contains the latest instruction in IV fluids procedures, advanced airway techniques, cardiology information, pharmacology instruction, surgical airways, and cardiac monitoring.

After successfully completing the program, students are eligible to take the National Registry Licensure Test and become a licensed Paramedic in the state of Missouri or work in most states with their National Registry License.

There is a separate application process for the Paramedic Program, which is part of a competitive admissions review. Applications for the fall 2018 class of the Paramedic Program will be available after March 2018. Review of applications will begin in April 2018. For more information, contact Earl Neal, Program Director, at (636) 481-3403 or email eneal1@jeffco.edu.

College Partners with PFG Middendorf to Host Culinary Leadership Classes

*A*s a leader in culinary arts education and training, Jefferson College recently collaborated with Performance Foodservice-Middendorf to provide two professional development courses for St. Louis area owners and managers of independent restaurants and foodservice providers. Both courses provided practical and theoretical information in order to improve service and operation.

The hands-on continuing education classes, held in the Jefferson College Area Technical School kitchen and classroom on the Hillsboro campus, included Kitchen Ranger Bootcamp and CEO of You. Over 50 individuals from throughout the region attended.

Jefferson College Culinary Arts Chefs Steve Berkel and Garrett Miller co-lead the “Kitchen Ranger Bootcamp” to teach participants about safety, knife and equipment skills, developing and sharing profitable feature items, efficiency and production, and professionalism and team-building. They also assisted the class in preparing a variety of dishes for enjoyment by all participants.

Jefferson College Culinary Chef Steve Berkel demonstrates safe knife handling to participants of the recent Kitchen Ranger Bootcamp sponsored by Performance Foodservice-Middendorf. Over 50 individuals from throughout the region took part in the hands on professional development experience held at Jefferson College.

The second course, “CEO of You,” was designed specifically for those in a leadership role or who are potential future leaders. Discussion topics included managing peers, championing brand and reputation, professional harassment training, conducting regular productive meetings with a team, and proper interviewing techniques and questions.

One Potato...Two Potato...Three Potato...Four: Unique Simulation Teaches Key Concepts to Nursing Students

Students in the Jefferson College Nursing Program recently had some fun during a highly unique interactive learning simulation involving the popular Potato Head family of toys.

Taught by Assistant Nursing Professors Holly Boettcher, Barbara Haynes, and Sheryl Zysk, the simulation was a unique way to demonstrate quality improvement concepts, patient safety and medical errors, lean process management, and teamwork and communication.

In a scenario following a terrible bus crash involving members of the Potato Head family, EMS arrives at the scene to find body parts scattered all over the road and surrounding area.

Luckily, a family member has a photo album with pictures of each person.

Students were divided into a series of ER trauma teams and their goal was to accurately assemble as many patients as possible in seven minutes. Based on input from photos and other team members, only two people from each team (implantation specialists) could physically implant the Potato Head body parts. The completed patients were then inspected for accuracy by someone outside their team.

The purpose of the simulation was to teach students the concept of lean process management created by the Toyota Production System in which efficiency and quality are equally important. Every step of the process adds value and eliminates waste. Each member of the team is valued for their contributions to the process and for their ideas for improving the system and insuring safety.

The teaching/learning simulation results started out with only a few Potato Heads getting correctly assembled, but by the end of the exercise, teams were assembling all potato heads with less than two errors.

Jefferson College's longstanding Nursing program has undergone a revitalization through the creation of a NEST (Nursing Education Simulation Technology) lab, revamped curriculum, an emphasis on skills development and academic needs of students, and the leadership of highly qualified faculty who are working together to bring a wide range of professional experiences to the classroom.

Second year Practical Nursing students Denise Kyle, Jamie Stout, and Sarah Werner (pictured left to right) work to accurately assemble as many Potato Head patients as possible during an interactive learning simulation regarding lean process management involving efficiency and quality.

The program focuses on relevant, industry-focused curriculum; tremendous clinical practicum experiences at sites throughout the region; state-of-the-art patient simulation labs; and individualized academic and personal support services. The program also offers flexible advancement from PN to RN to BSN thanks to Jefferson College's educational partnership with Central Methodist University.

Both of the Level I/PN and Level II/RN programs have full approval from the Missouri State Board of Nursing (MSBN). For more information about the Jefferson College Nursing program and admission requirements, visit www.jeffco.edu/nursing.

Student inspectors Mathew Ansted and Sarah Reed check the accuracy of assembly for a family of Potato Head patients as part of a learning simulation in the Practical Nursing program. The purpose of the unique simulation was to teach students quality improvement concepts, patient safety and medical errors, lean process management, and teamwork and communication.

International Education Week Activities Nov. 13-17

Student Panel Discussion – Casa De Salud Guest Speaker – Spanish Movie Screening

In connection with Jefferson College's mission to provide educational experiences and opportunities to the region, the Global Education Subcommittee of the Student Learning and Support Committee, will host two free programs on the Hillsboro campus in recognition of International Education Week November 13-17.

There is no cost to attend.
Reservations are not required for either program

International Education Week (IEW) is a joint initiative of the U.S. Department of State and the U.S. Department of Education to promote programs that prepare Americans for a global environment and attract future leaders from abroad to study, learn, and exchange experiences.

Among the special Jefferson College IEW activities planned are:

Ring in the Holidays with Annual Leader Dinner Dec. 1 – Tickets On Sale Now

Good food...great times...holiday cheer. Tickets are on sale for the fifth annual Leader Holiday Dinner co-sponsored by the Jefferson College Foundation on Friday, December 1, at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Center Cafeteria on the Hillsboro campus. The deadline for reservations is November 29 at 5 p.m.

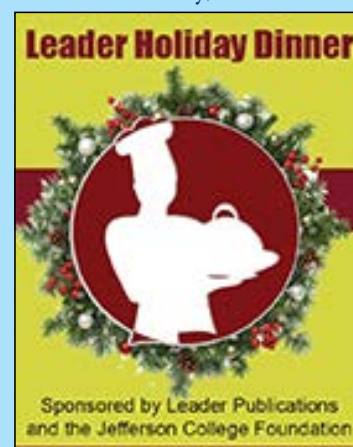

The top recipe in each of five categories, chosen by a panel of judges, will be prepared and served by the Jefferson College Culinary Arts Program, including a team of student servers.

Proceeds from the dinner benefit students in the popular Culinary Arts program.

Tickets cost $25 each, and include:

- Six-course meal featuring finalist recipes from the Leader Publications 2017 Holiday Recipe Contest
- Food demonstrations by faculty and students in the Jefferson College Culinary Arts Program under the direction of Chef Steve Berkel
- Music by the Jefferson College Jazz Ensemble
- Opportunity to vote for a favorite dish to determine the Grand Prize recipe contest winner
- Complimentary recipe booklet containing contest entries

Early registration is recommended. Due to limited seating and the popular nature of the event, tickets must be purchased in advance. The deadline for reservations is November 29 at 5 p.m. All tickets are non-refundable. Tickets may be purchased online at www.jeffco.edu/foundation, at Leader Publications (503 North Second Street, Festus), or by calling (636) 937-7560. Advance ticket purchasers will be asked if they wish to be seated with another party or if accessible seating is requested. Valet and accessible parking will be available.

2017 Outstanding Achievement Awards Presented to Faculty/Staff

The Jefferson College Foundation recently presented the annual Outstanding Achievement Awards to honor the exemplary accomplishments of Jefferson College faculty and staff who were nominated from four employee constituent groups.

2017 OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT AWARD RECIPIENTS INCLUDE:

Tina Jokerst

Administrative Assistant for the Communications & Fine Arts Divisions

Dedric Lee

Political Science Professor

Beverly Meyers

Adjunct Program Coordinator

Joe Pappas

Adjunct Music Professor

Dan Smith

Database Administrator

Each Outstanding Achievement Award recipient was presented a plaque and a $250 stipend. The recipients' names will also be displayed on the Foundation Honor Roll in the Administration Building lobby on the Hillsboro campus.

Faculty nominees must demonstrate intellectual vigor and communication skills in the interpretation and presentation of subject matter; promote positive morale through a congenial, supportive attitude toward students and peers; exhibit initiative, innovation and creativity resulting in improved learning and comprehension; demonstrate concern for and sensitivity to the needs of students and others; leave a favorable and lasting influence on students; put forth an effort to improve self as well as to develop and recognize others; and enhance the image of the department and/or college.

Nominees for staff recognition must demonstrate excellence in overall work performance; promote positive morale through a congenial, supportive attitude and by providing service to others; put forth an effort to improve self as well as to develop and recognize others; exhibit initiative, innovation and creativity resulting in improved operating efficiency of a work unit or the college as a whole; enhance the image of the department and/or college; and be a full-time employee of the college for at least five years.

Since 1991, the Jefferson College Foundation has actively encouraged private contributions to assist the college in areas such as capital projects, program development, and providing financial support to students that traditional funding alone often does not support.

During the 2016-17 fiscal year, the Foundation raised $445,704. Of that amount, $85,000 was awarded in scholarships to 82 students, $4,280 was earmarked for emergency loans or grants, and $2,225 was provided to help students purchase textbooks they needed to succeed. Without help from the Foundation, many of these students wouldn't be able to pursue their educational goals.
