To qualify for the Dean's List honor, full-time students must achieve a grade point average of 3.25 or higher (on a 4.0 scale) in at least 12 graded credit hours taken that semester. Part-time students who accumulate 12 or more graded credit hours with a 3.25 grade point average also qualify and must contact the Vice President of Student Services Office within ten days of grade reporting to be included.

From Tutus to Tool Belts: Girls Learn About Excitement of HVAC Careers

Each year, Jefferson College Heating, Ventilation, Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Instructor Kati Donahue talks to dozens of girls about the many opportunities that available in the trades and HVAC-R field. As educators, Kati and her peers at the College tried several things to try to engage females, including visiting area high schools and inviting girls to come tour the College's HVAC labs and facilities. Those efforts, however, did not result in increased female enrollment.

After discussing with her colleagues, they changed their focus from those who were currently in high school—realizing that many had already decided what career they wanted to be when they "grow up"—to a younger demographic of girls in grades 5-8.

As a result, the HVAC faculty designed a unique learning opportunity this summer called "From Tutus to Tool Belts" (#fromtutustotoolbelts) where, over two weekends, 24 girls and their parents participated in several hands-on experiences related to various aspects of HVAC in the College's state-of-the-art labs. After viewing demonstrations, participants completed activities where they wired a light bulb, prepped copper and brazed pieces together, worked with pipe wrenches and learned about cutting and threading black iron piping, and used a combination of tin snips, nips, and a hole cutter to perform sheet metal work. The girls finished up the day playing hide and seek, where they used an infrared camera to find those who were hiding.

"Of the 24 girls who came to the Tutus to Tool Belts program, I am hopeful that in the coming years I will see a few walk into my classroom ready to enter this amazing field of work," said Kati.

From Tutus to Tool Belts

“The best part was watching the fathers working with their daughters,” added HVAC Instructor Jack Cleaver.

Given the popularity and success of this year’s event, the “Tutus to Tool Belts” experience will continue with the hopes that it can be expanded to many other trades programs at the College.

The new “Tutus to Tool Belts” program introduced girls in grades 5-8 (and their parents) to the excitement of HVAC careers by participating in several hands on learning activities led by Jefferson College faculty. It was a unique opportunity to engage females in trades and technology-related career fields as viable career pathways after high school.

American Welding Society Honors Jefferson College Professor with Education Award

Jefferson College Welding Professor Joe Candela recently received the District Education Award from the American Welding Society (AWS). Jeff Palazzolo (left), First Vice Chair of the American Welding Society St. Louis Chapter, presented the award to Candela (center) during a recent ceremony at Jefferson College. Also congratulating Candela is Jefferson College Associate Dean of the School of Math, Physics, and Technology Maryanne Angliongto.

Candela was honored for his quality instructional performance devoted to the promotion and expansion of welding skills and knowledge. The award is presented to an outstanding teacher from each AWS National District. Jefferson College is located in District 14, which includes portions of Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, and Kentucky.

The distinction is a way of recognizing educators whose teaching activities are considered to have advanced the knowledge of welding of the undergraduate or postgraduate students in their respective institutions.
